Check-in Villa Bukit Naga

Location
Situated close to Selat, a small village in Bali, Villa Bukit Naga sits atop Naga Hill, at the point of intersection between two sacred rivers. It is also close to Ubud, the island's laidback cultural hub.

First Impressions
Villa Bukit Naga's decor is nature-centric with earthy colours and natural Balinese materials. The lush green woodlands serves as a serene backdrop to the 550 sq ft infinity pool. Originally the private estate of Hong Kong billionaire John Duffield, the property can now be rented by those in search of private luxury.

Accommodation
The estate houses three villas that can comfortably accommodate 13 guests across seven bedrooms: an 8,000 sq ft main villa, a 2,500 sq ft two-bedroom villa, and a 1,500 sq ft one-bedroom villa. The villas can't be rented separately, however, so you have to book the whole estate.

Facilities
The villa takes first-class hospitality to the next level by providing tailor-made services that cater to your every whim. A resident chef prepares a smorgasbord of meals from light-snacks to full-fledged banquets to specialty Balinese foods. An on-site driver is at your beck and call 24 hours, while you'll whit through customs with special Immigration clearance for all guests.

The verdict
For those looking to escape the crowds, Villa Bukit Naga is an idyllic escape from the relentless hustle and bustle of city life.
Barry C Chung
The estate is rented at a per night rate of HK$7,750 to HK$11,600 (excluding food and beverage) depending on season.
